Organizing a Humane Society Among the Best Citizens.

On Monday night next a long-felt and

The National Guard Court of Inquiry-Other Notes of General and Local Interest.

much needed want in this city will be filled by the organization of a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Between eighty and a hundred prominent merchants and other citizens will meet in the Peabody school building for the purpose of organization. A full corps of officers will be elected and the by-laws adopted. There will be a beautiful musical program rendered by some of the best local talent, and the meeting will be an extremely interesting one. This branch is organized under an act of the last legislature permitting the organization of local branches. This work is said to be particularly good by those who live in places where the society now operates, and they predict good benefits for Alexandria animals.

The Literary Class.

The regular weekly meeting of the Literary Class was held in Peabody Hall last night and was, as usual, well attended. The following subjects were considered during the evening: History of the United States, spelling and civil government. By what bonds were the United States united from 1775 to 1789? Under what circumstances does the House of Representatives elect the President? How many times this has occurred. What is an ex posto facto law? Under what conditions may a person be deprived of his property? The discussions were all interesting and extremely entertaining.

Court of Inquiry.

Gov. O'Ferrall has appointed the court of inquiry asked for by the officers of the first regiment. It is constituted as follows: Capt. George A. Mushbach of Alexandria, Capt. R. W. Tomlin of Nerfolk, Capt. Hugh T. Nelson of Charlottesville and Col. R. E. Boykin of Isle of Wight, judge advocate. The court has no power to pass sentence. Its duty is to investigate the cause of the troubles in the regiment and report the facts to the governor, who will, after reading the report, proceed as he may see fit. The court will meet in Richmond on January 22d. It is understood that the gov-ernor gives the court power to make a most searching investigation, and the out-come is looked forward to by the military people not only of this state, but all over the volunteer militia.

Arrested in Washington. Joseph Jones, alleged to be one of the four negroes who entered and robbed Josephus Blouse's store Thursday night, was arrested at the Baltimore and Potomac depot in Washington last night by Lieut. Smith of the Alexandria police force and Patrolman Lamb. Lieut. Smith went to Washington yesterday morning with a tip that Joseph Jones, a negro of bad character, was one of the men wanted. He asked Inspector Hollinberger to help him find the man, and Detectives Lacy and Helan were put on the case. During the forenoon they arrested Joseph Jones, a bootblack, who was afterward released. Lieut. Smith brought his prisoner to Alexandria last night. It is his opinion that the other three negroes who were in the robbery are in Washington.

Owing to the many robberles of late Mayor Strauss has issued orders to the police to arrest all suspicious characters seen on the street at night. Rev. Thomas E. Carson, pastor of the

At the meeting of Potomac Lodge, I. O. O. F., last night, the initiatory degree was conferred on one candidate.

Last evening Otto Evans, a young colored man, put on his best suit of clothes and a bright red tie, large enough for an anarchist's flag, and attended a "parlor social" on L street northwest, near New Jersey avenue, and he went there prepared to clean out the house if anything happened. A loaded pistol was his weapon, but as there was no trouble in the house and he had no occasion to use it he went outside and frightened the whole neighborhood by discharging the weapon.

For a few minutes there was an excit-ing time. People in their homes thought that a murder had been committed and were afraid to open their doors and winwere afraid to open their doors and windows. After waiting a few minutes, some of them ventured out to ascertain the cause of the trouble. The screaming had ceased and they naturally supposed that the man who fired the shot had disappeared, but he had only gone as far as the corner and there he fired another shot. By this time Policemen Hayhurst and Auldridge appeared, and placed France under the corner and the corner and the corner and all crides appeared and placed France under the corner and the corner and the corner and crides appeared and placed France under the corner and crides appeared to the corner and crides are critical and crides and cr dridge appeared and placed Evans under This morning he appeared in the Police

Mrs. Wm. D. Cabell has been informed that her uncle, Gen. Alfred W. Ellet, died at Eldorado, Kan., on the 9th instant. Gen.

Ellet was one of the greatest of volunteer heroes of the war. He served with rare distinction under Grant and Sherman, but probably his most valuable services were rendered in the memorable naval engagements on the Mississippi. For a time he commanded the Mississippi marine brigade, and took a conspicuous part in the fights at Island No. 10, at Vicksburg, at Memphis. In the engagement at Memphis he commanded the ram Monarch, and succeeded his brother, Col. Charles Ellet, in command of the squadron, when the latter was wounded and his ship, Queen of the West, was disabled. Col. Ellet died from his injuries on the 21st of June, 1862, and his younger brother, Alfred W., was promoted to his place. He took full command of the ram fleet, and afterward incorporated it with the marine brigade. Gen. Ellet leaves two sons, Edward C. and Wm. H., and a daughter, Mrs. Charles T. Kendall of Chi-

The Corcoran Art Gallery was thrown open to the public last evening from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. If there had ever been any question as to the popularity of these "open evenings" it would be disproved by the fact that in the two hours and a half more than 3,000 people took advantage of the opportunity to view the works of art by gaslight. Watts' picture, "Love and Life," which has been the subject of so much talk, came in for a large share of attention.

THE CHARITY BALL.

It Will Be Even More Brilliant This Year Than Formerly.

One of the chief events in Washington society which occurs every winter is the charity ball for the benefit of the Children's Hospital. Each one has been more successful than the preceding one, both in the number present and the strength of the receipts, and the one this year bids fair to excel the others at all points. A great many ladies prominent in high circles in Washington are on the patrenage list, and this will doubtless have a great effect on the attendance. The decorations, the music and the arrangements have all been of the highest order in the past, and no efforts have been spared this year to bring the one which comes on the 16th instant up to the high standard set by the
